

This privacy notice details how Boom Power Limited and its group company Fenwick Solar Project Limited (together “Boom Power”, “we” or “us”) holds, processes and retains personal data collected or received when users visit the Fenwick Solar Farm project website (the Website) or provide personal data through any means in response to a consultation issued by or on behalf of Boom Power on the Fenwick Solar Farm (the Project).

Boom Power is the controller and responsible for this website and the personal data we collect from you as well as a data processor for the purposes of the UK GDPR.

How does Boom Power process your personal data?

The data we process about you as an individual will vary depending on the type of interaction you have with us about the Project.

We may collect and use:

- Your name;
- Your address;
- Your telephone number;
- Your email address;
- Your employer or any group on whose behalf you are authorised to respond; and
- Your feedback in response to a consultation.

We will use this information for the following purposes:

- To report on our consultation, detailing what issues have been raised and how we have responded to that feedback, including how it may inform the design of the Project and inform the application for a Development Consent Order;
- To record accurately and analyse any questions you raise during consultation or feedback you have provided in response to consultation;
- To keep you up to date with the Project and relevant developments;
- To personalise communications with individuals we are required to contact as part of future consultations or communications; and
- The legal basis for processing this data is that it is necessary for our legitimate interest, namely for the purpose of ensuring that the process, analysis and reporting for consultation is accurate and comprehensive. In addition to the specific purposes for which we may process your personal data set out above, we may also process any of your personal data where such processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which we are subject.

We may share this information with:

The contractors and sub-contractors that are supporting Boom Power on this Project and our consultation, relevant governmental bodies such as the Planning Inspectorate and the Department for Energy Security and Net Zero, and our insurers and professional advisors insofar as reasonably necessary for the purposes of obtaining and maintaining insurance cover, managing risks, obtaining professional advice and managing legal disputes.

How do we protect data?

When we engage suppliers and partners to process data on our behalf, we do so based on written instructions, ensuring the third party has implemented appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure the security of data. In all circumstances, we will ensure that the data is protected and transferred in a manner consistent with applicable data protection laws.

How long do we retain data?

We will only retain data that we process for any purpose for as long as necessary to fulfil the purpose for which it was collected. Unless we contact you and obtain your consent for us to retain your personal data for a longer period, we will delete your personal data as soon as practicable following the outcome of the consultation process. We may retain your personal data where such retention is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which we are subject.

What information do we collect when you visit this Website and how is it used?

When someone visits this Website, we collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns to find out things such as the number of visitors to various parts of the Website.

We collect this information in a way which does not identify individuals and we do not make any attempt to find out the identities of those visiting. We will not associate any data gathered from this site with any personally identifying information from any source. If we do want to collect personally identifiable information through the Website, we will highlight this in advance. We will make it clear when we collect personal data and will explain what we intend to do with it.

When you submit your personal details to us via our 'contact us' function, we will use that information to respond to your message only. Your message will be relayed to the team who will respond directly to you. We will never share, trade or sell your personal data to a third party for marketing purposes.

How do we use cookies?

Cookies are small text files placed on your computer by websites you visit. They are widely used to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as provide information to the owners of the Website. For further information on the cookies related to this Website, please go to Cookies.

External links

The Website may contain links to third-party sites. This privacy notice does not apply to those third-party sites. We recommend that you read the privacy notices of any other sites that you visit as we cannot accept responsibility for the privacy practices of these sites, which may differ from ours.

Your rights

As a data subject, you have a number of rights under data protection law, as follows:

- The right to access;
- The right to rectification;
- The right to erasure;
- The right to restrict processing;
- The right to object to processing;

- The right to data portability; and
- The right to complain to a supervisory authority.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights or if you are unhappy with the way that we have processed your personal data, please contact us using the details below.

If you believe that we have not complied with your data protection rights, or you are not satisfied with our response, you can complain to the Information Commissioner via www.ico.org.uk.
